IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

MICHAEL BRIONEZ, et al.,

No. C 01-3969 CW

Plaintiffs,

v.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, et al.,

Defendants.

ORDER DENYING
MOTION FOR ENTRY OF ORDER THAT DEFENDANTS HAVE DISCHARGED THEIR OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, AND GRANTING IN PART
AND DENYING IN PART PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR CONTEMPT AND FOR ENFORCEMENT OF COURT-APPROVED
SETTLEMENT
AGREEMENT

Defendants move for entry of an order finding that they have discharged their obligations under the Hispanic Settlement Agreement (HSA or Agreement). Plaintiffs oppose that motion, and have filed their own motion for contempt and enforcement of the Agreement. Defendants oppose Plaintiffs' motion.

1 The matters were heard on February 10, 2006. Having 2 considered all of the papers filed by the parties and oral argument
3 on the motions, the Court denies Defendants' motion and grants
4 Plaintiffs' motion in part and denies it in part.

5 BACKGROUND

6 Plaintiffs filed this action in October, 2001, alleging that 7 Hispanics were under-represented in the workforce of the Pacific
8 Southwest Region of the Forest Service of the United States
9 Department of Agriculture (Region 5), as compared to applicable
10 Civilian Labor Force (CLF) statistics. According to Plaintiffs, 11 this under-representation was based on Region 5's process for 12 hiring and promotion, which unlawfully discriminated against 13 Plaintiffs and other class members in violation of Title VII.

14 Less than a year later, in June, 2002, the parties entered 15 into the Agreement. In October, 2002, the Court, following notice 16 and fairness proceedings, approved the Agreement. The effective 17 date of the Agreement was December 22, 2002.

18 The Agreement required a Monitor, and, pursuant to the 19 Agreement, the parties selected Marcie Seville as the Monitor. The 20 Agreement provided that the parties had to attempt to resolve with 21 the Monitor disagreements regarding compliance, before seeking 22 relief from this Court.

23 In May, 2005, Plaintiffs filed with the Monitor their Request
24 for Findings and Enforcement Recommendations. Defendants submitted 25 an opposition and Plaintiffs then submitted a reply. The Monitor 26 issued her Tentative Report in August, 2005.

27 On October 29, 2005, after Defendants lodged their objections 28

1 to the tentative report, the Monitor issued her Report and 2 Recommendations of Court-Appointed Monitor. The Monitor's Report 3 stated that:

4 Defendants have not substantially complied with all 5 provisions of HSA § IV.B-G., and § V, or with 6 alternative methods of implementation agreed upon by the 7 Parties. Defendants' efforts at HSA implementation have 8 been seriously hampered by continuing changes in key 9 personnel and proposals for implementation followed by 10 mid-stream changes in plans and strategies. There have 11 been ongoing delays in implementation -- or complete 12 abandonment -- of the very measures that Defendants
13 themselves have proposed to carry out their HSA
14 obligations. Defendants have not realized the stated 15 intent of the HSA -- to eliminate barriers to hiring, 16 promotion, and retention, and . . . they have not 17 substantially complied with their obligations under the 18 following HSA provisions:

12 § IV.C (maintaining a full-time Region Recruitment 13 Coordinator ("RRC") position, with the primary 14 purpose of implementing the Recruitment Program, 15 funded at a level enabling the RRC to accomplish the 16 objectives of the HSA)

15 § IV.D (making a good faith effort to maintain and 16 fill the Civil Rights ("CR") Director during the HSA
17 Term)

17 § V.A.1(1)&(2) (having a Regional Recruitment Program 18 designed to disseminate effective information 19 relating to employment opportunities and to increase 20 diversity of applicants by engaging in recruitment 21 activities consistent with § IV obligations)

20 § V.A.2 (monitoring all recruitment and promotion
21 actions of Forest Supervisors and Regional Office
22 Directors and all recruitment and promotion actions 23 taken under their supervision)

23 § V.A.3 (Employing alternatives agreed upon by the 24 parties in any action to fill a competitive vacancy)

24 § V.B.1(a) (Having the RRC responsible for 25 coordinating outreach and recruitment)

25 § V.B.2 (Giving the RRC access to specified data, 26 including RNO information)

27 The Monitor finds that Defendants are in substantial 28

1 compliance with: § IV.B (issuance of policy
2 statement), § IV.E (Advertisement of Region 5 3 positions), § IV.F (retaining Monitor), § V.A.4 (as to recruitment from the Student Career Employment Program), and § V.C (Training).

4 As to § IV.G, which requires the Defendants to make a 5 good faith effort to provide sufficient resources to 6 meet the obligations under the HSA, the Monitor finds 7 that substantial resources have been directed toward HSA efforts, but in some situations, the use of those resources has been misguided and has not furthered the Region's efforts to meet its HSA obligations.

8 The Monitor further finds that, in the more than two and 9 one-half years since the effective date of the HSA, 10 Defendants have failed to make substantial progress
11 toward the § IV workforce parity goal. Although Region 5 is at or above parity in several professional series and program managers (GS 340), those series comprise a relatively small percentage of the permanent workforce.
12 Most of the Region's progress is in the hiring of student trainees in firefighter apprenticeship 13 positions, under the SCEP or Student Career Experience Program hiring authority. While successful in 14 recruiting and selecting Hispanic applicants for that program, the Region has failed to take steps to address 15 retention of those new hires and there has been significant attrition. Without consideration of the SCEP hires, the Region has made almost no progress in 16 increasing Hispanic representation during the HSA term, and the Monitor concludes that the SCEP employees are 17 not properly included in the permanent workforce. Based upon existing shortfalls of permanent Hispanic 18 employees, and workforce projections, the Monitor finds that there is little or no likelihood that Defendants 19 will achieve the HSA goal near the February 2006 HSA expiration date, or within any reasonable time period 20 after expiration.

21 Monitor's Report, 17-19 (Summary of the Monitor's Findings).

22 The Report concluded by urging the parties to resolve the non-23 compliance issues. But the parties could not. According to 24 Defendants, they presented a written offer to Plaintiffs indicating 25 that they were willing to accept, in whole or in part, eleven out 26 of the fourteen recommendations made by the Monitor. On 27 December 5, 2005, Plaintiffs responded that they could not accept

1 Defendants' proposed terms and notified Defendants of their intent
2 "to pursue enforcement remedies in federal court."

3 In response, Defendants filed their motion for entry of an 4 order that they have discharged their obligations under the 5 Agreement. Two weeks later, Plaintiffs filed their motion for 6 contempt and enforcement of the Agreement. In their motion, 7 Plaintiffs seek remedial enforcement measures, including a three-8 year extension of the term of the Agreement, and declaratory relief 9 holding that voluntary race-conscious affirmative action is 10 warranted and legally justified.

11 The Agreement was set to expire on February 14, 2006. On 12 February 10, 2006, after the hearing, the Court issued an order 13 extending the Agreement for one year.

14 LEGAL STANDARD

15 This Court has the inherent power summarily to enforce a 16 settlement agreement involving an action pending before it. In re 17 Suchy, 786 F.2d 900, 902-03 (9th Cir. 1985). The interpretation 18 and enforcement of a settlement agreement is governed by the legal 19 principles applicable to contracts. United Commercial Ins. Serv., 20 Inc. v. Paymaster Corp., 962 F.2d 853, 856 (9th Cir. 1992).

21 DISCUSSION

22 I. Monitor's Report

23 Defendants argue that the Monitor's Report is not properly
24 before the Court; they contend that Plaintiffs treat the Monitor's 25 Report as if it were an initial ruling that is appealed to this 26 Court. It is not.

27 Plaintiffs cite Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 53, noting 28

1 that it requires the Court to decide de novo all objections to the 2 Monitor's findings of fact and conclusions of law. Rule 53
3 provides that, unless a statute provides otherwise, a court may 4 appoint a master only to "perform duties consented to by the 5 parties." Fed. R. Civ. P. 53(a)(1)(A). The Agreement does not 6 provide that a Monitor's Report will be presented to the Court.
7 Defendants contend that they did not agree that the Monitor would 8 present a Report and recommendation to the Court. Plaintiffs 9 respond that the Monitor's Statement of Work, prepared by the 10 parties, provides, "The Monitor may meet with and report to the 11 Court if directed by the Court."

12 Although the Court did not "direct" the Monitor to report to 13 the Court, the Court finds her report useful and wishes to consider 14 it. Defendants have had the opportunity to counter her factual 15 statements and respond to her legal conclusions. The Court has 16 considered Defendants' positions, as well as the Monitor's Report, 17 and reached its own findings and conclusions.

18 II. Agreement

19 The Agreement provides that any motion before this Court for 20 enforcement shall be limited to enforcement of the provisions
21 contained in Sections IV and VIII. The Agreement further states 22 that in a Court proceeding to enforce compliance with Section IV, 23 Defendants shall not be found in breach of the Agreement, and the 24 Court shall not order further relief, if the Court finds that 25 Defendants have substantially complied with Section IV.B through G 26 and Section V, or any alternative methods of implementation agreed 27 upon by the parties, and have nonetheless been unable to reach the

28

1 goals of Section IV.A. If the Court finds that Defendants are in 2 breach, however, the Agreement provides that the Court may order
3 specific enforcement of the provisions contained in Section IV.B.
4 through IV.G., additional remedial measures to increase Hispanic
5 representation subject to the availability of Region 5 positions, 6 any alternative provisions agreed upon by the parties, and/or a 7 one-time, one-year extension of the Term of the Agreement.

8 A. Contempt/Breach of Agreement

9 Plaintiffs contend that Defendants have breached the Agreement
10 and thus are in civil contempt. For this Court to find contempt, 11 Plaintiffs must show by clear and convincing evidence that 12 Defendants violated a specific and definite order of the Court.
13 Stone v. City and County of San Francisco, 968 F.2d 850, 856 n.9 14 (9th Cir. 1992). The burden then shifts to Defendants to 15 demonstrate why they were unable to comply, and to show they took 16 every reasonable step to comply. Id. While "there is no good 17 faith exception to the requirement of obedience to a court order," 18 a party should not be held in contempt if its actions appear to be 19 based on a good faith and reasonable interpretation of the court's 20 order; substantial compliance with the court order is a defense to 21 civil contempt. In re Dual-Deck Video Cassette Recorder Antitrust 22 Litig., 10 F.3d 693, 695 (9th Cir. 1993).

23 Defendants argue that, not only are they not in contempt, the 24 Agreement does not allow Plaintiffs to move for contempt. They 25 note that the word "contempt" does not appear in the Agreement.
26 Defendants point to language in the Agreement to argue that the 27 parties agreed to limit the Court's retained jurisdiction solely to 28

1 enforcing compliance of two sections: "The District Court will 2 retain jurisdiction during the term of this Agreement for the 3 purpose of enforcing compliance with Sections IV and VIII." HSA, 4 § VII.A. Plaintiffs do not address this argument in their reply.
5 But, as they note in their moving papers, the Final Judgment
6 Approving the Settlement Agreement is enforceable by this Court 7 both as a judicial decree and as a voluntary agreement between the 8 parties.<sup>1</sup> And "courts have inherent power to enforce compliance 9 with their lawful orders through civil contempt." Spallone v.
10 United States, 493 U.S. 265, 276 (1990) (quoting Shillitani v.
11 United States, 384 U.S. 364, 370 (1966)).

12 1. Section IV

13 As noted above, Section IV of the Agreement, entitled Duties 14 and Obligations, is enforceable. Plaintiffs contend that 15 Defendants are in violation of Sections IV.A.1, IV.C, IV.D and 16 IV.G.

17 a. Section IV.A

18 According to this section, "It is the intention of Defendants 19 to undertake and continue specific measures designed to eliminate 20 barriers to hiring, promotion, and retention of Hispanics in the 21 Region 5 workforce." Subsection One states Defendants' goal: to 22 increase Hispanic representation in the Region 5 workforce to a 23 percentage equivalent to the percentage of Hispanics in the 24 Applicable Labor Pool in the Relevant Geographic Area. Subsection

---

26 <sup>1</sup>Defendants' argument that Plaintiffs cannot move for contempt 27 is based solely on the language in the Agreement. They do not 28 argue that Plaintiffs cannot move for contempt because the Agreement is not a consent order.

1 Two provides: "Nothing in this Agreement will obligate Region 5 to 2 create new positions, to fill any particular position, or to 3 promote, select, or assign any particular person to any particular 4 position. No provision of this Agreement is intended as, or may be 5 construed as imposing, a quota."

6 Defendants contend that this section contains merely 7 aspirational goals and thus it cannot be enforceable; they note 8 that, unlike other sections in Section IV, this section does not 9 contain the words "shall" or "will." This is incorrect. As 10 Plaintiffs note, the Agreement itself, in the section on 11 enforcement, expressly provides that the Court will be measuring 12 breach by whether Defendants have been "unable to reach the goals 13 of Section IV.A." The Agreement also expressly provides that 14 Section IV is enforceable; it does not divide Section IV into 15 subsections that are enforceable and subsections that are not.
16 Furthermore, the goal falls within the Duties and Obligations
17 provision of the Agreement. And it is not an impermissible quota;
18 as the Supreme Court explained,

19 Properly understood, a quota is a program in which a 20 certain fixed number or proportion of opportunities are 21 reserved exclusively for certain minority groups. Quotas 22 impose a fixed number or percentage which must be 23 attained, or which cannot be exceeded, and insulate the individual from comparison with all other candidates for the available seats. In contrast, a permissible goal . . . require[s] only a good-faith effort . . . to come within a range demarcated by the goal itself.

24 Grutter v. Bollinger, 539 U.S. 306, 335 (2003) (inner citations and 25 quotations removed; alternations in original).

26 Not only is this section enforceable, it provides the 27 benchmarks that Defendants claim are lacking in the Agreement, 28

1 making this case distinguishable from Donnelly v. Secretary of U.S.
2 Department of Agriculture, 95-C-4389-DLJ (N.D. Cal. Nov. 22, 2005), 3 which involved the Women's Settlement Agreement.<sup>2</sup> The parties and 4 their experts dispute what these benchmarks currently are and what 5 information should be compared to the benchmarks. Defendants 6 contend that, based on statistics provided by their experts, all 7 benchmark goals have been surpassed, and that there is now a 8 surplus of Hispanic representation in the overall Region 5 9 workforce. But Plaintiffs claim, based on their experts' studies, 10 that Hispanics continue to be under-represented; they note that 11 there are only ten more Hispanic permanent employees in Region 5 12 than there were at the beginning of the Agreement. Two issues are 13 predominantly responsible for the parties' diverging views:

14 (1) whether to include Student Career Employment Program positions 15 in the GS-462 Forestry Technicians job series and (2) how to 16 determine the Recruitment CLF Data based on the 2000 Census.

17 i. Inclusion of Student Career Employment
18 Program positions

19 According to Defendants, the Hispanic representation in the 20 Region 5 workforce from October 1, 2002 (a few weeks before the 21 Court approved the Agreement) to December 3, 2005, increased from 22 8.9 percent to 12.5 percent. Plaintiffs contend this increase is 23 based on the inclusion of Student Career Employment Program 24 positions within the permanent workforce; not including those

26 <sup>2</sup>Plaintiffs further note that Donnelly was a settlement of 27 hostile environment/sexual harassment litigation, and did not 28 involve hiring or increasing women's representation in the workforce.

1 positions, the Hispanic workforce in Region 5 has remained 2 approximately nine percent throughout the three-year settlement 3 period.

4 The Student Career Employment Program provides a system
5 whereby students can train to become career Forest Service 6 Employees. These apprentices, or SCEPs, have the potential to 7 become permanent employees upon graduation, if SCEP requirements 8 are met and appropriate positions are available. Unlike permanent 9 employees, however, SCEPs generally have no procedural or appeal 10 rights. In May, 2004, Defendants hired 245 Hispanic SCEPs; by 11 October, 2005, only 143 remained.

12 Defendants do not dispute that the inclusion of SCEPs
13 substantially increases the percentage of Hispanic representation
14 in the Region 5 workforce overall and the GS-462 Forest Technician 15 job series specifically; nor do Defendants deny the SCEPs' high 16 attrition rate. Nonetheless, Defendants argue that SCEPs are 17 properly included in the data to analyze Hispanic representation 18 and to determine if their goals have been met. Defendants note 19 that they have always included SCEPs in their data, and that SCEPs 20 were included in their baseline data when the parties negotiated 21 the HSA, a fact Plaintiffs do not dispute. Defendants' expert 22 states that temporary or trainee employees, like SCEPs, are not 23 excluded from the CLF data, discussed below, which is based on all 24 types of employees, including those in jobs that will not lead to a 25 long-term career. Defendants further point to the language in the 26 Agreement that requires them to keep track of the number and 27 percentage of Hispanics admitted into the Region 5 SCEP and to 1 recruit from that program.

2 The Monitor, however, rejected Defendants' reasons for 3 including SCEPs in the permanent workforce statistics and did not 4 include SCEPs in determining the representation of Hispanics in 5 permanent jobs. Plaintiffs urge this Court to do the same.

6 It is true that, as noted above, SCEPs were included as 7 permanent employees in the baseline percentages of the Agreement
8 and in the early monitoring reports. But, as the Monitor noted, 9 the data shows that the difference between the percentages of 10 Hispanic employees with and without SCEPs in the early monitoring 11 reports is de minimis. Furthermore, the Agreement makes clear that 12 permanent employees and SCEPs are not treated the same; they are 13 included in separate categories. The language in the Agreement 14 regarding what information needs to be in the monitoring report
15 demonstrates this: Defendants are required to collect information 16 regarding permanent employees, information regarding positions, 17 information regarding promotions, information regarding the average 18 grade of employees, and information regarding SCEPs.

19 Although the Agreement makes clear that SCEPs are not 20 permanent employees, the goal in Section IV.A.1 is "to increase 21 Hispanic representation in the Region 5 workforce"; it does not 22 specify whether this goal applies only to permanent employees.
23 Nonetheless, based on the language of the Agreement and the 24 dwindling numbers of SCEPs, the Court will not include the SCEPs in 25 the permanent workforce statistics. And Defendants' argument, that 26 even excluding the SCEPs there was a substantial increase in 27 Hispanic representation, is not persuasive: using Defendants'

28

1 numbers, on December 22, 2002, the Hispanic representation was 8.9
2 percent (466/5,252) and on December 31, 2005 it increased to 9.9 3 percent (476/4829). As Plaintiffs and the Monitor note, without 4 including the SCEPs, there has been little, if any, progress toward 5 the goal of Section IV.A.1 of the Agreement.

6 ii. 2000 CLF Data

7 In Exhibit B to the Agreement, the parties agreed on the 8 percentages for each Civilian Labor Force job based on the 1990
9 Census; these percentages establish the series-specific CLF 10 workforce parity goals. The Agreement states that "Defendants 11 shall provide this information using the 1990 EEOC Civilian Labor 12 Force Data until the 2000 EEOC Civilian Labor Force Data is 13 available." HSA, § II.A.1(c). Now that the 2000 EEOC Civilian 14 Labor Force Data is available, the parties disagree over the 15 correct percentages based on the new information. As Plaintiffs 16 note, this disagreement arises because the Census Bureau made 17 numerous changes in the code numbers, labels and detailed contents 18 of its occupational categories in the 2000 Census. Although the 19 parties disagree as to how the 1990 percentages should be updated, 20 the parties agree that the GS-462 Forestry Technician job series is 21 the most important to analyze because employees in that series 22 account for approximately half of Region 5's workforce.<sup>3</sup> The 23 agreed-upon CLF percentage for this job series based on the 1990
24 Census was 21.3 percent. Plaintiffs contend that the updated CLF

---

25
26 <sup>3</sup>The Monitor noted that the parties agree on the 2000 CLF 27 percentages in almost half of the thirty series listed and differed 28 by one percent or less in several others.

1 percentage is 33.8 percent; the Monitor agreed. Defendants,
2 however, contend that 15.1 percent is the correct updated 3 percentage.

4 Before addressing how the parties arrived at their differing 5 percentages, Defendants argue that the Agreement provides that 6 Defendants, not Plaintiffs, are to provide the relevant EEOC-CLF 7 data. The Agreement does state the "Defendants shall provide" 8 EEOC-CLF data. But nowhere does the Agreement provide, or even 9 suggest, that Defendants alone shall determine the appropriate 2000
10 Census revisions to Exhibit B. Although Plaintiffs do not address 11 this argument, the Monitor rejected it. The Court also rejects 12 Defendants' argument that they alone can provide the updated 13 percentages.

14 Plaintiffs hired an expert, Dr. Marc Bendick, to determine the 15 updated percentages based on the 2000 Census. To determine the 16 correct percentage for the Forestry Technician occupation group, 17 which was no longer used in the 2000 Census, Dr. Bendick used a 18 weighted average of the Hispanic representation in three occupation
19 codes: 196, Miscellaneous Life, Physical, and Social Science
20 Technicians; 612, Forest and Conversation Workers; and 21, Farmers 21 and Ranchers.

22 Defendants, however, assert that the appropriate comparison, 23 or crosswalk, as the parties call it, for the missing Forestry 24 Technician occupation group is occupation code 196, and that the 25 updated percentage should be based on that code alone. Defendants 26 contend that the EEOC affirmed their analysis; though, as the 27 Monitor noted, the EEOC provided only "general guidance" that 28

1 agreed with Defendants' results. After the Monitor issued her 2 report, Defendants hired an expert, Dr. Claudia A. González
3 Martínez, who agreed with Defendants that occupation code 196
4 provides the correct updated percentage. Dr. González then 5 adjusted occupation code 196 to account for citizenship and English 6 proficiency -- qualifications Defendants state are necessary to 7 work for Region 5 -- to reach Defendants' updated CLF percentage of 8 15.1 percent.

9 But, as Plaintiffs and their experts note, there are problems 10 with using only code 196. For example, Dr. Bendick asserts that 11 code 196 corresponds to only twenty-seven percent of the 1990 12 Forestry Technician occupation. Dr. Bendick notes that, given the 13 increase in the Hispanic population in Region 5, it is highly 14 improbable that the CLF workforce parity goal for the Forestry 15 Technician job series would decrease over the decade; under 16 Defendants' calculations, however, the goal drops from 21.3 percent 17 to 15.1 percent. Furthermore, there is a wide range of positions 18 in the GS-462 job series, from "paper and pencil" jobs, requiring 19 supervisory skills and possibly a college degree, to "pick and 20 shovel" jobs, requiring a high school degree and the ability to 21 move dirt, suppress fires, chop brush and maintain hiking trails.
22 Using only code 196 would ignore the diversity of GS-462 positions 23 and the fact that many position descriptions do not require 24 performing data analysis and report-writing.

25 Plaintiffs also contend that there are problems with 26 Defendants' use of English proficiency and U.S. citizenship.
27 Plaintiffs note that the parties did not agree to adjust the data 28

1 to account for those two factors and that it is not clear whether 2 adjustment for language ability is appropriate in all job series.
3 They further note that SCEPs need only be lawfully admitted to the 4 United States; SCEPs need not be citizens before they convert to 5 permanent positions. Because the Court is not including SCEPs in 6 the permanent workforce statistics, however, citizenship
7 requirements for SCEPs are irrelevant; Plaintiffs point to no other 8 GS-462 position that does not require U.S. citizenship.

9 The Court finds that Plaintiffs' updated percentage is 10 preferable to Defendants'. But the Court agrees with Defendants 11 that the applicable labor pool means those individuals representing 12 the relevant civilian labor force who possess the qualifications 13 corresponding to Region 5 job series and categories. Thus, these 14 percentages must take into account citizenship and language 15 ability. Plaintiffs state that the adjustments for language 16 ability and citizenship result in inconsequential differences for 17 the central issue of the level of under-representation of 18 Hispanics. For the updated percentage for GS-462, the Court will 19 use Plaintiffs' calculation that adopt Defendants' language ability 20 and citizenship adjustments: 31.5 percent.

21 iii. Under-representation in the Region 5
22 Workforce

23 The Court finds that Hispanics continue to be under-24 represented in the Region 5 workforce. As noted by Plaintiffs' 25 expert, Dr. Louis R. Lanier, with or without SCEPs, with or without 26 the citizenship and language ability adjustments, and using 27 Defendants' most up-to-date workforce numbers, there remains a 28

1 statistically significant difference between Defendants' Hispanic 2 workforce and the Hispanic workforce as a whole.

3 b. Section IV.C

4 This section requires that "Defendants will maintain a full-5 time Regional Recruitment Coordinator position, with the primary 6 purpose of implementing the Recruitment Program set forth in 7 Section V" and that the position will be funded at a level enabling 8 the Coordinator to accomplish the objectives of this Agreement. In 9 their motion, Defendants state that the position of the Coordinator 10 has been filled, or the duties performed, since shortly after the 11 Monitor was hired. Defendants list the five individuals who have 12 filled the position, temporarily filled the position, performed the 13 position's duties or assisted in performing the position's duties.

14 The Monitor, however, found that Defendants did not maintain a 15 full-time Coordinator, as required by the Agreement. The Monitor 16 described the multiple times she raised this issue with Defendants.
17 The Monitor also noted that she had warned Defendants that, one and 18 a half years into the Agreement, there was not a clear plan for 19 what the full-time Coordinator would be doing. While others may 20 have been performing the Coordinator's duties in the absence of a 21 full-time Coordinator, those duties were not being performed on a 22 full-time basis.

23 Defendants never state that they have had a full-time
24 Coordinator, who implemented the Recruitment Program, as required 25 by the Agreement. Instead, Defendants merely state, "There is no 26 dispute that Defendants have maintained the Regional Recruitment 27 Coordinator (RCC) Position." The Agreement, however, requires

1 more, and the Court finds that Defendants are not in substantial 2 compliance with this section.

3 c. Section IV.D

4 This section requires that Defendants make a good faith effort
5 to maintain and fill the position of Region 5 Civil Rights 6 Director, during the term of the Agreement. To show their 7 compliance, Defendants list five individuals who have held that 8 position, one of whom was the Acting Director for less than two 9 months. Defendants contend that filling a position with acting 10 directors, while a permanent director is sought, is good faith 11 compliance. Plaintiffs disagree, as did the Monitor.

12 The Monitor noted that for eleven months in 2003 and 2004 13 there were either short-term detailers or an acting director in the 14 Civil Rights Director position. The Monitor acknowledged that 15 there may be situations when a Director's duties are effectively 16 performed by various acting or detailed personnel, but found that 17 was not the case in this situation. When the first Director 18 retired, she was replaced by an Acting Director, who was unfamiliar 19 with issues involving the Agreement and retired after few months.
20 The next Acting Director left after two months. The position was 21 not filled with a permanent director until almost a year after the 22 first director retired, despite the urgent need, and repeated 23 requests by the Monitor, to fill the permanent position.

24 Good faith requires more than merely filling the position with 25 several individuals serving as Acting Civil Rights Director. The 26 Court finds that Defendants did not exercise the requisite good 27 faith and thus are not in substantial compliance with this section.

1 d. Section IV.G

2 This section requires that Defendants make a good faith effort 3 to provide sufficient resources to meet their obligations under the 4 Agreement. Defendants state that they have spent a substantial 5 amount of money implementing the Agreement. Plaintiffs do not 6 dispute that Defendants have provided sufficient resources; but 7 they argue that a good faith effort includes an obligation to 8 allocate the funding in a manner designed to meet the Agreement's 9 goals. Plaintiffs complain about the consulting firms that 10 Defendants hired to publish narrative reports not required by the 11 data-production requirements of the Agreement. But, as Defendants 12 note, the Agreement does not require Defendants to allocate 13 resources as prescribed by Plaintiffs. The Court finds that 14 Defendants are in substantial compliance with this section.

15 2. Section V

16 Although the Court determines that Defendants have not met 17 their stated goal in Section IV.A.1, the Court, as noted above, 18 cannot find Defendants in breach if they substantially complied 19 with the rest of Section IV and Section V.

20 As determined above, Defendants are not in substantial 21 compliance with Sections IV.C and IV.D; but they are in substantial 22 compliance with Sections IV.B, IV.E, IV.F and IV. G. The Court
23 will now examine whether Defendants are in substantial compliance 24 with Section V, entitled Methods of Implementation. Plaintiffs 25 contend that Defendants are not in substantial compliance with 26 Sections V.A and V.B. Plaintiffs do not dispute Defendants' 27 compliance with Section V.C.

1 a. Section V.A.

2 Plaintiffs argue that Defendants are not in substantial 3 compliance with subsections 1, 2 and 3; they do not dispute
4 Defendants' compliance with subsections 4 and 5.

5 i. Section V.A.1

6 This subsection provides, "The Regional Program includes 7 components that are designed (1) to disseminate effectively 8 information related to employment opportunities and (2) to increase 9 the diversity of the applicant pool by engaging in recruitment 10 activities, both government-wide and externally." Defendants 11 contend that they are in substantial compliance with this provision 12 because they have developed and implemented a Regional Recruitment 13 Program, which includes an Outreach and Recruitment Strategy with 14 the goal of attracting, hiring and retaining "talented employees in 15 order to sustain a skilled and diverse Regional workforce."
16 Defendants point to activities they have funded, such as hiring an 17 outside contractor to recruit for Region 5 positions and funding a 18 full-time Student Career Employment Program coordinator.

19 Plaintiffs, however, note that Section V.A.1 required
20 Defendants promptly to implement a recruitment and outreach program 21 and to ensure it is effective, but that, as the Monitor stated, 22 "That has not occurred." Monitor's Report, 37. The Outreach and 23 Recruitment Strategy was not effectively disseminated until early 24 2005. The Monitor acknowledged that Defendants were successful in 25 recruiting a diverse applicant pool for the fire apprentice hiring, 26 but found that "it was a one-time event -- not an effective
27 Regional Recruitment Program -- and it involved only entry level

1 student trainee positions." Monitor's Report, 49. Except for 2 student apprentice hiring, Defendants' data does not show that 3 Region 5 is having any success in getting a more diverse applicant 4 pool.

5 Nor do Defendants assert that their applicant pool has become 6 more diverse. Defendants again cite Donnelly, but, as noted above, 7 this case is distinguishable from Donnelly. Here, the Agreement, 8 specifically Exhibit B, provides measures to evaluate 9 effectiveness. Defendants accuse Plaintiffs of presenting no 10 evidence that information about employment opportunities is not 11 being effectively disseminated; yet, Defendants provide no evidence 12 that any of its programs are designed to, or have, increased the 13 diversity of the applicant pool.

14 Furthermore, late compliance is not substantial compliance.
15 While the Agreement did not provide a specific time table for 16 completion of tasks, Defendants cannot expect to be found in 17 substantial compliance when they have implemented measures only 18 recently and thus have been unable to determine the effectiveness 19 of these measures. Even in Donnelly, which Defendants urge this 20 Court to follow, the court extended the term of the settlement
21 agreement for an extra year due to "start-up delays." The Court 22 finds that Defendants are not in substantial compliance with this 23 provision.

24 ii. Section V.A.2

25 This subsection provides, "Region 5 will monitor all 26 recruitment and promotion actions of Forest Supervisors and 27 Regional Office Directors and all recruitment and promotion actions 28

1 taken under their supervision." Defendants state that they are 2 monitoring all the recruitment and promotion actions as required by 3 this provision. But Plaintiffs note that the form used by 4 Defendants was not even disseminated to the field until 5 February, 2005. Plaintiffs also note the Monitor's finding that 6 Defendants' belated monitoring procedures do not constitute 7 substantial compliance with this section.

8 As the Monitor found,

9 having recently implemented a policy does not address the 10 fact that, for several years, Region 5 filled positions 11 without the required monitoring of recruitment and 12 promotions. While the RRC has reviewed a small number of 13 positions under the new oversight policy, according to 14 the HSA reports, Region 5 has filled more than 4,000 positions from October, 2002, to October, 2004, all of which were filled well before the oversight policy was put in place. Moreover, simply having a policy in place does not mean that the oversight is occurring or is being done effectively.

15 Monitor's Report, 35 (inner citation omitted). The Monitor further 16 found that, while Defendants made a commitment to do monthly 17 reviews and reports, they have been unable to carry that out.

18 The Court finds that Defendants are not in substantial 19 compliance with this section.

20 iii. Section V.A.3

21 This section provides, "Defendants shall employ the Outreach 22 and Recruitment Procedures using the Employment Outreach and 23 Recruitment Documentation, attached as Exhibit C . . . in any 24 action to fill a vacancy through competitive processes for a Region 25 5 Position. Prior to the final selection for a Region 5 Position, 26 the selection certificate and supporting paperwork will be reviewed 27 by the unit Human Resource Officer." Defendants state that the

1 parties, with input from the Monitor, designed a new, more 2 effective Exhibit C. According to Defendants, they first used the 3 old Exhibit C and then used the new Exhibit C.

4 Plaintiffs do not dispute Defendants' use of Exhibit C, either
5 in its old or new form. Instead, they note that the new form 6 contains "checkpoints," or specific times during the hiring process 7 when procedures must be reviewed to determine, for example, whether 8 the applicant pool is sufficiently diverse. The checkpoints 9 require access to race and national origin data. But, as the 10 Monitor noted, until late September, 2005, the only point at which 11 Defendants had access to that data was six days prior to the 12 closing of the vacancy announcement; data on applicants who applied 13 in the last six days of the opening was not available. Because 14 Defendants could not fully evaluate the checkpoint system or the 15 revised form due to the unavailability of data, the Monitor 16 determined that Defendants were not in substantial compliance with 17 Section V.A.2. The Court agrees; as noted above, last-minute 18 compliance is not substantial compliance. The Court finds that 19 Defendants are not in substantial compliance with this section.

20 b. Section V.B

21 This section describes the duties of the Regional Recruitment 22 Coordinator: (1) coordinating outreach and recruitment; (2) being 23 knowledgeable in Region 5's hiring practices; and (3) making 24 regular presentations. The section further describes the 25 information that the Coordinator needs to be able to access.
26 Defendants state that the Coordinator is responsible for monitoring 27 Region 5's outreach and recruitment strategies and action plans and

1 makes presentations at Regional Leadership Team meetings, which are 2 held at least three times a year. In addition, Defendants contend 3 that the Coordinator has access to all the data listed in this 4 section.

5 Plaintiffs disagree that the Coordinator has undertaken the 6 duties described in this section or has access to the required 7 information. They quote from the Monitor's Report that, after 8 concluding that Defendants were not in substantial compliance with 9 V.B.1, stated:

10 The RRC position has not been filled on a full time 11 basis throughout the HSA and has not been funded at a 12 level enabling the incumbent to accomplish the 13 objectives of the HSA. The various individuals in the 14 RRC position have not effectively been in the role of 15 coordinating the Region's outreach and recruitment or 16 otherwise in charge of the Regional Recruitment Program.

17 Monitor's Report, 31 (emphasis in original). Plaintiffs further 18 note that some of the information required to be available to the 19 Coordinator was not accessible.

20 In response, Defendants contend that Plaintiffs failed to 21 counter their evidence that the Coordinator has carried out the 22 responsibilities outlined in this section. But Defendants did not 23 provide evidence that the Coordinator organized and oversaw 24 outreach or recruitment; nor did Defendants provide evidence that 25 the Coordinator was knowledgeable about hiring practices. Vicki 26 Johnson's declaration states, in a conclusory fashion, that the 27 Coordinator has carried out the responsibilities outlined in this 28 section, but the declaration does not specify anything that the Coordinator organized, oversaw or coordinated. Instead, the declaration states that the Coordinator monitored and performed a

1 full range of internal and external recruitment and placement
2 duties. In addition, the declaration is silent as to the 3 Coordinator's knowledge of hiring practices. Defendants also 4 respond that the data issues now have been resolved, so that the 5 Coordinator has access to all the required information. This is 6 not sufficient to show that Defendants are in substantial 7 compliance with this section; the Court finds that they are not.

8 B. Enforcement

9 Although Plaintiffs show that Defendants are not in 10 substantial compliance with various provisions of the Agreement, 11 Plaintiffs have not proven contempt by clear and convincing 12 evidence. The Court does not find that Defendants are in contempt, 13 but it does find that Defendants are not in substantial compliance 14 with Sections IV.B through IV.G and Section V as a whole and 15 specifically that Defendants are in breach of Sections IV.A, IV.C.
16 and IV.D. Accordingly, the Court will order further relief. As 17 noted above, the Agreement provides that if the Court finds that 18 Defendants are in breach, "the Court may order specific enforcement 19 of the provisions contained in Section IV.B. through G., additional 20 remedial measures to increase Hispanic representation subject to 21 the availability of Region 5 Positions, any alternative provision 22 agreed upon by the parties, and/or a one-time, one-year extension 23 of the Term of the Agreement." Even without this language, the 24 Court has the inherent power to enforce this Agreement. TNT
25 Marketing, Inc. v. Agresti, 796 F.2d 276, 278 (9th Cir. 1986) 26 ("district court had inherent power to enforce the agreement in 27 settlement of litigation before it").

1           The Court will enforce this Agreement; however, it will not 2 modify the Agreement. Plaintiffs argue that the Court can order 3 the relief sought through either enforcement or modification. But, 4 as both parties note, for the Court to modify this Agreement,
5 Plaintiffs must first establish a significant change, in either 6 factual conditions or in the law, requiring modification; then the 7 Court must determine whether the requested modification is 8 "suitably tailored" to resolve the issues created by the changed 9 circumstances. See Keith v. Volpe, 784 F.2d 1457, 1460 (9th Cir.
10 1986). Plaintiffs contend that the scope of Defendants' failure to 11 comply with the Agreement alone provides grounds for modification 12 as a changed circumstance. The two out-of-circuit cases they cite, 13 however, do not support that argument. As Defendants note, those 14 cases present egregious circumstances not present here. For 15 example, in Thompson v. U.S. Department Of Housing & Urban 16 Development, 404 F.3d 821, 828 (4th Cir. 2005), the court found 17 that the defendants had "done almost nothing that they were 18 required to do." (Emphasis in original.) Here, Plaintiffs do not 19 dispute that Defendants have complied with several provisions, such 20 as those dealing with training and retaining the Monitor.

21           The only changed circumstance that Plaintiffs point to is the 22 National Forest Service's consolidation of all human resources 23 personnel in Albuquerque, New Mexico. While this could classify as 24 a significant changed circumstance, the Court, as discussed below, 25 without modifying the Agreement, can order that Defendants ensure 26 that there will be sufficient human resources personnel in Region 5 27 to implement the Agreement effectively. Thus, the Court finds that 1 modification of the Agreement is inappropriate.

2 C. Relief

3 Pointing to the language in the Agreement that allows the 4 Court to order "additional remedial measures to increase Hispanic 5 representation," Plaintiffs request that Defendant be required to 6 implement the following measures recommended by the Monitor:

7 (1) extending the Agreement for three years; (2) contracting with 8 an effective outside recruiter; (3) establishing a fire apprentice 9 mentoring program; (4) advertising all positions as inter-
10 disciplinary and multi-grade; (5) expanding the Central California 11 Consortium; (6) creating a Selection Review position;
12 (7) establishing short-term benchmarks; (8) tracking previously 13 qualified Hispanic applicants for recruitment and outreach 14 purposes; (9) providing identifying race and national origin
15 information to hiring officials for voluntary use as a selection-16 plus factor in job series where Hispanics are under-represented; 17 (10) retaining and providing data on the race and national origin 18 of applicants for temporary fire-related positions; and 19 (11) notwithstanding the upcoming move of Human Resource staff to 20 Albuquerque, New Mexico, retaining local human resources personnel 21 sufficient to carry out all recruitment activities related to 22 effective implementation of the Agreement. Defendants argue that 23 Plaintiffs take the "additional remedial measures" language out of 24 context and that Plaintiffs ask this Court to put into place a new 25 settlement agreement, one not bargained for by the parties.

26 1. Three-year extension of the Agreement

27 As noted above, the Agreement provides for a one-time, one-28

1 year extension to the term of the Agreement. The Monitor
2 recommended that Defendants voluntarily agree to add another two 3 years to this provision, making a three-year extension to the 4 Agreement. Defendants contend that this relief contravenes the 5 agreed upon one-year extension in the Agreement. Plaintiffs 6 contend that a two-year extension is a permissible "additional 7 remedial measure" to increase Hispanic representation. Plaintiffs 8 also argue that the Court has the power to modify the Agreement.
9 However, as noted above, the Court will not do.

10 As the Ninth Circuit has instructed, "'[T]he scope of a 11 consent decree must be discerned within its four corners, and not 12 by reference to what might satisfy the purpose of one of the 13 parties' or by what 'might have been written had the plaintiff
14 established his factual claims and legal theories in litigation.'" San Francisco NAACP v. San Francisco Unified Sch. Dist., 896 F.2d 15 412, 413 (9th Cir. 1990) (alteration in original) (quoting United 16 States v. Armour & Co., 402 U.S. 673, 682 (1971)). The parties 17 agreed to limit the extension of the Agreement to one year. Thus, 18 without modifying the Agreement, the Court can only order a one-19 year extension of the term of the Agreement.
20

21 2. Contracting with an effective outside recruiter

22 Defendants argue that this request, which requires Defendants 23 to evaluate the effectiveness of their outside recruiter and allows 24 the Monitor to determine whether the recruitment services are 25 sufficient, contravenes the Agreement, which gives Region 5 control 26 over its Recruiting Program. But that control is found in Section 27 V.A, a section with which Defendants did not substantially comply.
28

1 The Court finds that granting this request is an appropriate
2 additional remedial measure to increase Hispanic representation.

3 3. Fire apprentice mentoring program

4 The Monitor notes that Defendants stated that they accepted
5 the Monitor's recommendation to implement an effective mentoring 6 program. Defendants have done so, revising their existing formal 7 Mentoring Program to add a component for new employees with less 8 than one year of service. Plaintiffs do not dispute that a 9 mentoring program for fire apprentices is currently in place. The 10 Court orders Defendants to continue this program.

11 4. Advertising of all positions as inter-disciplinary 12 and multi-grade

13 Plaintiffs request that Defendants be ordered to advertise all 14 positions as multi-grade, and to issue inter-disciplinary 15 announcements, in order to attract a broad applicant pool which 16 will effectuate the purposes of the Agreement. Defendants contend 17 that to do so would violate a United States Forest Service policy
18 (issued November 30, 2005), which provides that a single position 19 description can no longer be classified or advertised in broad 20 inter-disciplinary series, except in limited circumstances. Under 21 the policy, Defendants may classify and advertise a position in two 22 series if there is a logical pairing of series that directly 23 correlate to the work performed. Plaintiffs do not address this 24 policy change. The Court will not order Defendants to violate a 25 Forest Service policy: Defendants are ordered to advertise all 26 positions as multi-grade and to issue inter-disciplinary 27 announcements whenever consistent with this policy, i.e., if there

1 is a logical pairing of series that directly correlate to the work
2 performed.

3 5. Expanding the Central California Consortium

4 The Central California Consortium is an environmental 5 education, outreach and recruitment program for students that is 6 sponsored by the Forest Service and Region 5. Based on the success 7 of this program, the Monitor recommended that Defendants expand the 8 activities of the Central California Consortium to at least two 9 additional locations. Defendants complain that this relief 10 contravenes their control over their own recruiting program and 11 that seeking this relief contradicts Plaintiffs' exclusion of SCEP 12 positions from their analysis of Hispanic representation in the 13 workforce; the CCC only recruits SCEPs and temporary student 14 employees. Given the success of this program, the Court grants 15 this request.

16 6. Creating a selection review position

17 Plaintiffs ask the Court to order Defendants to create and 18 fund an independent selection review position to be filled by a 19 person selected by and supervised directly by the Monitor.
20 Defendants argue that this request contravenes the Agreement, which 21 provides that "Region 5 will monitor all recruitment and promotion 22 activities." HSA, § V.A.2. Region 5 may do so; this is not 23 inconsistent with additional monitoring. As the Monitor noted, 24 Defendants were backlogged on selection reviews and have determined 25 that the Coordinator does not have time to do the reviews. The 26 Monitor found that an individual responsible for independent 27 selection review will not result in Defendants ceding their hiring 28

1 authority to someone outside the department, but it will ensure 2 that there is a consistent and timely review of Defendants' 3 established procedures so barriers to increased Hispanic
4 representation can be identified and addressed. The Court grants 5 this relief.

6 7. Establishing short-term benchmarks

7 Plaintiffs request that the Court order the parties to meet 8 with the Monitor within thirty days of this order to establish 9 short-term benchmarks for progress toward the HSA goal of 10 increasing Hispanic representation in the Region 5 workforce.
11 These benchmarks would chart the employment levels of Hispanic 12 employees. Defendants claim that this relief is unconstitutional 13 because it creates a race-based classification that does not pass 14 strict scrutiny. The Court denies this request.

15 8. Tracking of previously qualified Hispanic
16 applicants for recruitment and outreach purposes

17 Plaintiffs request that the Court order Defendants to create, 18 within thirty days from this order, a database that can identify 19 previously qualified Hispanic applicants for employment in Region 5 20 who were not selected for positions, for the purpose of outreach 21 and recruitment for future available positions. The Court denies 22 this request.

23 9. Providing identifying race and national origin 24 information to hiring officials for voluntary use as 25 a selection-plus factor in job series where 26 Hispanics are under-represented

27 Plaintiffs state in their reply that they are not asking the 28 Court to order Defendants to provide identifying race and national origin information to hiring officials or to instruct their hiring

1 officials that they may consider race and national information as a 2 "plus factor" in filling positions where Hispanics are under-3 represented. Rather, Plaintiffs seek a determination from this 4 Court that the voluntarily use of race and national origin as a 5 "plus factor" to select among qualified applicants in under-6 represented jobs series is constitutional. The Court will discuss 7 this below.

8           10. Retaining and providing data on the race and 9           national origin of applicants for temporary fire-related positions

10           Plaintiffs ask the Court to order Defendants to provide the 11 Monitor with data on the race and national origin of applicants for 12 temporary fire-related job positions. Defendants note that this 13 was not on the list of data which the Agreement required that 14 Region 5 provide; nor is a temporary fire-related position a 15 "Region 5 position," as that term is defined in the Agreement.
16 Furthermore, Defendants again contend that this request is 17 inconsistent with Plaintiffs' exclusion of SCEPs from their 18 analysis of Region 5's progress on increasing Hispanic 19 representation in the permanent workforce. But, as the Monitor 20 noted, permanent entry-level fire-related positions have 21 traditionally been filled by employees with past experience as 22 temporary employees. Thus, the Court finds that this is also an 23 appropriate remedial measure and grants this request.

24           11. Retaining human resources personnel sufficient to 25           carry out all recruitment activities related to effective implementation of the Agreement

26           In response to the Forest Service's consolidation of all human 27 resource positions in Albuquerque, New Mexico, as discussed above, 28

1 Plaintiffs request that the Court order that Defendants are to 2 ensure that Region 5 retains on each forest and in the Regional 3 Office of Region 5, human resources personnel sufficient to carry 4 out all recruitment activities related to the effective 5 implementation of the Agreement. Defendants contend that this 6 request is too broad; nonetheless, they note that Region 5 received 7 a waiver from the Forest Service and that the human resources 8 staffing and recruitment functions of Region 5 will only be moved 9 to Albuquerque when the Agreement ends or when the Human Resources 10 staff has demonstrated the capacity successfully to perform the 11 work required in meeting the duties and obligations of the 12 Agreement. The Court finds that Plaintiffs' request is an 13 appropriate remedial measure and that, because of the waiver, 14 Defendants will not be in violation of Forest Service directives 15 and policy on workforce planning if this request is granted.
16 Therefore, the Court grants this request and orders that, until the 17 Agreement ends, Defendants are to retain, on each forest and in the 18 Regional Office of Region 5, human resources personnel sufficient 19 to carry out all recruitment activities related to implementing the 20 Agreement and this order.

21 III. Race as a Plus Factor

22 As noted above, Plaintiffs request that the Court declare that 23 the voluntary use of race and national origin as an optional plus 24 factor, to select among qualified applicants in job series in which 25 Hispanics are under-represented, is constitutionally permissible.
26 Plaintiffs emphasize that Defendants' workforce has been 27 persistently imbalanced for over a decade; this is the second 28

1 settlement agreement that has tried and failed to address the low
2 representation of Hispanics in Defendants' workforce. Plaintiffs 3 contend that, armed with such a determination from this Court, 4 Defendants could engage in voluntary, lawful and effective efforts 5 to remedy past discrimination which has resulted in long-standing 6 workforce disparities. But, Defendants have made clear that, even 7 if the Court were to make such a determination, they do not wish to 8 use race and national origin as a plus factor, and they do not 9 believe that there has been past discrimination.

10 All racial classifications imposed by the government must be 11 analyzed by a reviewing court under strict scrutiny. Grutter, 539 12 U.S. at 326. Under the strict scrutiny standard, a race-based 13 classification is permissible only if it serves a compelling 14 government interest and is narrowly tailored to meet that interest.
15 See, e.g., Adarand Constructors, Inc. v. Pena, 515 U.S. 200, 235
16 (1995). The Supreme Court recently instructed, "Not every decision 17 influenced by race is equally objectionable and strict scrutiny is 18 designed to provide a framework for carefully examining the 19 importance and sincerity of the reasons advanced by the 20 governmental decision maker for the use of race in the particular 21 context." Grutter, 539 U.S. at 327.

22 A. Compelling government interest

23 Both parties agree that a gross statistical disparity can 24 satisfy a prima facie standard for discrimination and form the 25 strong basis in evidence warranting affirmative action. See, e.g., 26 City of Richmond v. J.A. Croson Co., 488 U.S. 469, 501 (1989).
27 Plaintiffs' statistics show a gross disparity in some of the job 28

1 series and could justify Defendants finding that there was past
2 discrimination by the government. Cases involving affirmative
3 action contemplate a voluntary finding of past discrimination. See 4 Johnson v. Transportation Agency, 480 U.S. 616, 620 (1987)
5 (voluntary assumption by the State agency that an affirmative plan 6 was justified to "remedy the effects of past practices"). Thus, a 7 court finding of discrimination by the government is not required 8 to justify voluntary affirmative action; voluntary findings of past 9 discrimination by a government agency suffice. See id; Ho v. San 10 Francisco Unified Sch. Dist., 965 F. Supp. 1316, 1324 (N.D. Cal.
11 1997) (citing Wygant v. Jackson Board of Educ., 476 U.S. 267, 289 12 (1986) (O'Connor, J., concurring in part) ("a contemporaneous or 13 antecedent finding of past discrimination by a court or other 14 competent body is not a constitutional prerequisite to a public 15 employer's voluntary agreement to an affirmative action plan," 16 because a constitutional violation "does not arise with the making 17 of a finding; it arises when the wrong is committed"). Even though 18 there is sufficient evidence to justify Defendants voluntarily 19 finding past discrimination in their former hiring practice, 20 Defendants, at the hearing and in their papers, deny any past 21 discriminatory practices. To support a compelling government 22 interest, there must be prior discrimination by the government;
23 findings of societal discrimination are not adequate. Id. at 490-24 91. Plaintiffs have not attempted to prove past discrimination.
25 Because Defendants have made clear that they do not, and will not, 26 admit to past discrimination, it does not appear that the 27 government has a compelling interest in remedying it with 28

1 affirmative action.

2 B. Narrowly tailored

3 Defendants note the Supreme Court's instruction that, because 4 racial classifications "are simply too pernicious to permit any but 5 the most exact connection between justification and 6 classification," the Court must conduct "a most searching 7 examination." Gratz v. Bollinger, 539 U.S. 244, 270 (2003). The 8 Monitor conducted such an examination and concluded that the 9 optional plus factor recommendation was narrowly tailored. In 10 reaching her conclusion, she examined the necessity for relief and 11 the efficacy of alternative methods, the flexibility and duration 12 of the relief, the relationship of the numerical goals to the 13 relevant labor market and the impact of the relief on the rights of 14 third parties. She noted that Defendants had tried race-neutral 15 measures for years, with only limited success: data from the Forest 16 Service shows that Region 5 has increased its Hispanic permanent 17 employee representation by less than three percent in the past 18 fifteen years. Furthermore, the proposed affirmative action 19 measure is flexible, of limited duration and takes into account the 20 impact on others.

21 Defendants argue that the use of race as a plus factor is a 22 quota and thus impermissible. They attempt to distinguish this 23 case from Grutter by arguing that the use of race and national 24 origin as a plus factor here would result in a workforce with a 25 defined racial make-up. This argument fails. In Grutter, the 26 Supreme Court found that race was a legitimate plus factor because 27 it was used as one factor among many that the law school admissions 28

1 officers took into account; it was a factor that was not the 2 "defining feature" of any particular application and its use did 3 not guarantee a student body that bore a statistical relationship 4 to the make-up of the applicant pool.

5 The proposed affirmative action here is like that allowed in 6 Grutter: it would allow race and national origin to be considered 7 "flexibly as a 'plus' factor in the context of individualized 8 consideration of each and every candidate." 539 U.S. at 335. All 9 qualified candidates would compete with other qualified candidates.
10 There would be no Hispanic quota; Plaintiffs' envisioned 11 affirmative action provides only the option of considering race and 12 national origin as a plus factor, not the obligation. The Court 13 finds that the voluntary use of race and national origin as an 14 optional plus factor to select among qualified applicants in job
15 series where Hispanics are under-represented, for the limited time 16 that the Agreement remains in effect, like the use of race as a 17 plus factor in Grutter, would be narrowly tailored.

18 C. Strict scrutiny

19 Because it appears that there is not a compelling government 20 interest, the Court denies Plaintiffs' request that it declare 21 that, in this situation, the voluntary use of race and national 22 origin as an optional plus factor, to select among qualified 23 applicants in job series in which Hispanics are under-represented, 24 is constitutionally permissible.

25 CONCLUSION

26 For the foregoing reasons, the Court DENIES Defendants' Motion 27 For Entry of Order That Defendants Have Discharged Their

1 Obligations Under the Settlement Agreement (Docket No. 94). The 2 Court GRANTS IN PART Plaintiffs' Motion For Contempt and 3 Enforcement of Court-Approved Settlement Agreement (Docket No. 107)
4 and DENIES it IN PART. Specifically, the Court finds that, while 5 Defendants are not in contempt, they are in breach of Sections 6 IV.A.1, IV.C and IV.D of the Agreement. The Court will enforce the 7 Agreement. The Court extends the term of the Agreement by one 8 year. The Court further orders, as remedial measures to increase 9 the representation of Hispanics, that:

10 Defendants contract with an effective outside recruiter; in 11 order to do this, Defendants and the Monitor shall evaluate the 12 effectiveness of Defendants' recently hired outside recruiter, 13 Baitz.com;

14 Defendants continue their fire apprentice mentoring program;
15 Defendants advertise all positions as multi-grade and issue
16 inter-disciplinary announcements whenever possible, i.e., if there 17 is a logical pairing of series that directly correlate to the work
18 performed;

19 Defendants expand the activities of the Central California
20 Consortium to at least two additional locations;

21 Defendants create and fund an independent selection review 22 position; the individual who fills that position will be selected 23 by and supervised directly by the Monitor;

24 Defendants retain and provide data on the race and national 25 origin of applicants for temporary fire-related positions; and

26 Defendants retain, until the Agreement ends, human resources
27 personnel, sufficient to carry out all recruitment activities

1 related to implementing the Agreement and this order, on each 2 forest and in the Regional Office of Region 5.

3 In addition, because the parties were unable to agree on a 4 reporting and enforcement procedure for the remainder of the 5 Agreement period, the Court directs the Monitor to propose a 6 reporting and enforcement procedure and submit it to the Court, 7 within twenty-one days from this order, for consideration.

8 IT IS SO ORDERED.
